++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
A wet start, drier with sunny spells later.

Today:
A wet start, as a band of rain, heavy at times, moves eastwards over the country. This will clear through morning, leaving a largely dry afternoon with occasional sunny spells. Becoming windy with a risk of gales along northern coasts. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Tonight:
A dry evening for most, with patchy cloud. Scattered showers, possibly thundery, overnight across northern areas, becoming drier again before dawn. Feeling less cold than recent nights but remaining windy. Minimum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Sunday:
A fine and dry day across the country, with plenty of sunny spells and light winds. Becoming quite cold overnight, with frost possible in places. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
A dry start for Monday but rain moving in later. Very wet and strong winds throughout Tuesday. Heavy rain to start Wednesday, showery later. Generally cold, though milder on Tuesday.
